

UPR COMPILATION OF GOVERNMENT PLEDGES – Tunisia

What is the UPR?

The Universal Periodic Review (UPR) is a new UN human rights process which involves a review of the human rights records of all 192 UN Member States once every four years by the Human Rights Council, the UN's main Human Rights body. The stated objectives of this new mechanism include "the improvement of the human rights situation on the ground" and "[t]he fulfillment of the State's human rights obligations and commitments and assessment of positive developments and challenges faced by the State." (Human Rights Council Institution Building package (A/HRC/RES/5/1) at § 4(a) and (b)).

What are Alkarama's UPR Compilations and who are they for?

Alkarama has tried to make user-friendly compilations of the undertakings made by the Arab States examined under the Universal Periodic Review to try to make the UPR process meaningful in improving the human rights situation 'on the ground'. These compilations are designed to assist in the follow-up and monitoring of the Governments' undertakings and promises to the UN Human Rights Council.

Themes considered in this compilation for Tunisia:

- A. General Human Rights policy
- B. International Human Rights conventions
 - (a) Ratifications/Accessions
 - (b) Measures taken to implement Human Rights instruments
 - (c) Mechanisms established to ensure the primacy of international human rights over domestic law
- C. National Human Rights protection mechanisms
 - (a) National oversight and monitoring bodies
 - (b) Coordination
- D. National Human Rights Institutions
- E. Freedom of expression, opinion, assembly and association
- F. Independence of media
- G. NGOs/Civil society
- H. Judicial system
- I. Torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment
- J. Conditions of detention
- K. Death penalty
- L. Universal Periodic Review Process/Human Rights Council
- M. Special procedures of the Human Rights Council
- N. Protection of Human Rights while combating terrorism

Types of Government pledges (note, all made within the UPR process):

Affirmations: made by the State under Review during the 2008 UPR process

Voluntary Commitments: undertaken by Tunisia to the UN HRC and the UN GA (made between 2006 and 2008)

Recommendations: made on 8 April 2008 by Member and Observer States on the HRC's UPR Working Group and accepted by Tunisia

		Voluntary commitment(s) undertaken by Tunisia to the UN HRC and the UN GA (made between 2006 and 2008)
1.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Tunisia will not fail to participate actively in international efforts to achieve this goal [reform of the UN] and for which the need is now increasingly urgent. Original version: La Tunisie ne manquera pas de prendre part activement aux efforts internationaux visant à atteindre cet objectif (reform the UN) et dont la nécessité s'avère aujourd'hui de plus en plus urgente.	Para. 6, Page 12, Tunisian voluntary pledges made in view of the 2006 Human Rights Council elections
2.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Lastly, as it submits this report, Tunisia gives every assurance that 2008 will provide further evidence of its commitment to continuing its efforts to promote and observe human rights and expand its cooperation with all stakeholders at the national, regional and international levels.	Para. 9, Page 5, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
3.	<input type="checkbox"/>	In the introduction of its report, Tunisia asserted that (...) "(...) In addition to the measures and initiatives mentioned in the report, Tunisia will shortly announce new decisions". By this announcement, the Minister indicated that Tunisia meets its commitments.	Para. 6, Pages 3 and 4, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21
4.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Tunisia will resolutely continue to implement (...) an active, sustained policy on promotion and protection of all human rights at the national, regional and international levels.	Para. 76, Page 23, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
5.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Tunisia is firmly committed to the promotion and protection of all human rights while being aware that the progress achieved needs to be further consolidated within a continuing dynamic resulting from the constant balance between two divergent concerns: on the one hand, the political will and firm commitment of the State and all members of civil society to work together to maintain and further build on all the progress made in the implementation of all human rights using a comprehensive approach that accepts human rights as universal, complementary, interdependent and interrelated.	Para 80, Page 24, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
6.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Tunisia confirms that it is committed to this path. Above all it rejects any sense of self-satisfaction because in this area nothing is ever finally attained. The State's efforts are thus geared towards promoting as widely as possible a human rights culture and human rights education, and their underlying universal values: On the other hand, the real challenges associated with the major threats posed by the rise of all forms of terrorism, extremism, fanaticism, intolerance, racism, xenophobia and religious defamation, which have a deadly impact on the efforts of the State and the international community as a whole to promote and protect all human rights	Para. 81, Page 24, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1

7.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Minister reiterated Tunisia's willingness to cooperate in the area of human rights with all mechanisms (...) For Tunisia, the promotion and protection of human rights is an ongoing process which requires consolidated efforts.	Para. 5, Page 3, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21

10.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Recommends Tunisia to consider ratifying the Optional Protocol to CAT (Canada) as soon as possible (United Kingdom)	Para. 83, Page 19, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21

(b) Measures taken to implement international human rights instruments:

		Affirmation(s)	Source
11.	<input type="checkbox"/>	In this context, mention should be made of the promulgation, following a referendum, of Constitutional Act No. 51 of 1 June 2002, amending and supplementing certain provisions of the Constitution, notably: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • New paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 of article 5 of the Constitution, stating that "the Republic of Tunisia is founded on the principles of the rule of law and pluralism. It strives [to achieve] the dignity and personal development of human beings ... [and] to entrench the values of solidarity, mutual assistance and tolerance among individuals, groups and generations" • New article 5 of the Constitution, which states that "the Republic of Tunisia guarantees fundamental freedoms and human rights in the universal, comprehensive, complementary and interdependent 	Para. 13, Page 6, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1

12.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Many other legislative measures have been adopted in recent years to ensure closer compatibility of domestic law with the provisions of international instruments ratified by Tunisia. The main ones - on strengthening press freedom, judicial guarantees and the independence of the judiciary, the prohibition of torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, and the consolidation of the rights of women, children and persons with disabilities - will be described in part II of this report, in the sections dealing with the status of the various categories of human rights.	Para. 14, Page 6, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
13.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Meanwhile, under this heading the following main measures may be mentioned by way of illustration: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Act No. 63 of 27 July 2004 on the protection of personal data, which guarantees that personal information will be handled in full transparency and honesty and with respect for human dignity • Act No. 2005-81 of 4 August 2005, amending and supplementing Act No. 67-29 of 14 July 1967 on the organization of the judiciary, the High Council of the Judiciary and the special status of the judiciary • Organization Act No. 2006-1 of 9 January 2006, amending the Press Code, in particular the final paragraph of article 3, and abolishing the statutory deposit for all daily newspapers and periodicals, including magazines • Act No. 2007-32 of 22 March 2007 supplementing certain provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which obliges judicial police officers, at hearings pursuant to letters rogatory, to inform suspects "of their right to be assisted by counsel of their choice, and to note this in the police report" and establishing the right to prior transmission to the lawyer of the record of proceedings 	Para. 15, Pages 6 and 7, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
14.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Most recently, on 19 February 2008, the Chamber of Deputies adopted three bills (...) the third requiring a reasoned decision for any extension of the period of police custody or pretrial detention in order to prevent automatic extensions.	Para. 17, Page 7, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
15.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Minister reiterated Tunisia's willingness to cooperate in the area of human rights with all mechanisms and recalled	Para. 5, Page 3, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21

		that since its independence, Tunisia has put great efforts in the area of human rights.
16.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Tunisia decided to create an institution related to the General Human Rights Coordinator in charge of the follow-up to treaty bodies' recommendations in order to promote their effective implementation.	Para. 6(i), Page 5, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21
17.	<input type="checkbox"/>	(...) He also indicated that the Constitutional Court is taking into account international treaties and human rights documents and instruments for its decisions (...)	Para. 81, Page 18, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21

		Voluntary commitment(s)
18.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Tunisia [...] wishes to reaffirm its willingness to actively cooperate with [...] all institutional and treaty mechanisms of the United Nations - including by working wholeheartedly for the success of the universal periodic review - in exchanging and building on experience gained in the promotion and protection of all human rights.	Para. 7, Page 5, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
19.	<input type="checkbox"/>	With regard to the implementation of the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, [...] the Tunisian Government consistently endeavours to put into practice all the mechanisms required to address violations.	Para. 39, Page 13, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
20.	<input type="checkbox"/>	He [the Minister of Justice and Human Rights of Tunisia]also informed the Working Group on new measures that have been adopted to enhance the process of human rights protection and promotion, and to consolidate cooperation with the United Nations and regional bodies: (...)Tunisia's decision to submit, in 2008, eight reports to United Nations bodies, of which seven to treaty bodies: (i) Fifth and sixth periodic reports on the implementation of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights. 		Accepted recommendation(s)
22.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Recommends that the mandate of the Higher Committee on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms be in line with the Paris Principles (Saudi Arabia)	Para. 83, Page 19, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21

(c) Mechanisms established to ensure the primacy of international human rights over domestic law:

		Affirmation(s)	Source
23.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Article 32 of the Tunisian Constitution provides in paragraph 4: “ The treaties ratified by the President and approved by the Chamber of Deputies have a higher authority than laws. ”	Para. 18, Page 7, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
24.	<input type="checkbox"/>	As part of its follow-up to various recommendations by the treaty-monitoring bodies, Tunisia has in recent years developed mechanisms to ensure the primacy of ratified international human rights instruments over domestic laws, notably mandatory referral to the Constitutional Council for an opinion and direct applicability of international human rights instruments by the courts.	Para. 19, Page 7, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
25.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Role of the Constitutional Council (mandatory referral) The Constitutional Council is expressly instructed, under the Constitutional Acts of 27 October 1997 and 1 June 2002, to ascertain the conformity and compatibility of all draft laws with the Constitution, and in particular with its provisions concerning human rights. This supervision is a precaution intended to ensure the conformity of a given text with the provisions of the Constitution, as well as the domestic legal system's compliance with ratified international treaties. The Council then issues a binding reasoned opinion which is published in the Official Journal.	Para. 20, Page 7, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
26.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Role of the courts (direct applicability) The incorporation of international instruments into the internal legal order has given rise to numerous debates in Tunisian courts. Contrary to the traditional position - namely that the provisions of international conventions that have been ratified and approved create obligations only for the States parties, the courts have decided in several cases that international instruments, including human rights instruments, may be directly invoked before the domestic courts.	Para. 21, Page 8, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
27.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Administrative Tribunal has also played a crucial role in this respect since the adoption of, inter alia, Act No. 39 of 3 June 1996 establishing the right of appeal in cases of challenges on grounds of illegality or constitutionality, Act No. 79 of 24 July 2001 establishing a cassation chamber at the Administrative Tribunal and Act No. 11 of 24 February 2002 establishing the right to challenge the constitutionality of regulatory decrees, thereby lifting the immunity that applied to such decrees under the previous system.	Para. 22, Page 9, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
28.	<input type="checkbox"/>	All these reforms have made it possible for the Administrative Tribunal to effectively ensure respect for the rights of the public and strengthen basic principles related to human rights, not least by referring expressly to the principles set forth in international instruments on the subject	Para. 23, Page 9, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1

C. National Human Rights protection mechanisms:

(a) National oversight and monitoring bodies:

		Affirmation(s)	Source
29.	<input type="checkbox"/>	As part of its follow-up to various recommendations by treaty-monitoring bodies after their consideration of Tunisia's periodic reports, the powers of the High Committee on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms established by Decree No. 54 of 7 January 1991 have been substantially consolidated in recent years by the promulgation of, inter alia, Decree No. 2,846 of 8 November 2006 and Decree No. 886 of 10 April 2007, to bring the High Committee into line with the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (Paris Principles, General Assembly resolution 48/134). (b) Coordination:

		Affirmation(s)	Source
30.	<input type="checkbox"/>	In order to ensure better coordination of action to promote and protect human rights, human rights have their own ministry, the Ministry of Justice and Human Rights . The Minister is assisted by a Human Rights Coordinator whose task is to monitor the promotion of human rights, receive complaints and carry out studies on the subject, in cooperation with the High Committee on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and the human rights units in other departments, i.e., the Ministries of the Interior, Foreign Affairs and Social Affairs.	Para. 26, Page 10, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
31.	<input type="checkbox"/>	In an effort to further strengthen the mechanisms for the protection of human rights, a National Commission on International Humanitarian Law was established on 20 April 2006 in order to confirm Tunisia's participation in the international process to protect and develop human rights, contribute actively to peace building in the world and reaffirm its commitment to ensuring full compliance with all relevant international instruments. D. National Human Rights Institutions:

32.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Tunisian State is aware of the need to establish the best possible partnership with NGOs, which it assists in case of difficulties. Thus, with regard to the problems of the Tunisian Human Rights League (LTDH) , Africa's first human rights league and one of Tunisia's national assets, the approach consistently adopted by the Tunisian authorities has been to respect the organization's independence and give it a proper chance to overcome its internal difficulties. The authorities encourage the League to hold its Congress as soon as possible and to adopt transparent rules of procedure that will better permit it to serve the cause of human rights.	Para. 30, Page 11, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
33.	<input type="checkbox"/>	On the issue of Higher Committee on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and the Paris Principles, the Minister noted the paradox that the Human Rights Committee was set up 1991 and has not yet the accreditation by the ICC, while being a pioneer institution in Africa and in the Arab world. He indicated that the President Ben Ali announced that the legal status of the Human Rights Committee was no longer depending on a presidential decree and include several branches and high capable representatives as well as representatives of civil society. A bill is currently under consideration, which will further strengthen the role of the Human Rights Committee, including the possibility by the chair of the Human Rights Committee to visit prisons and engage in developing programmes to take stock of the human rights situation.	Para. 36, Page 11, Working Group report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1

34.	<input type="checkbox"/>	As the President announced in Tunis on Thursday, 24 January 2008, [...] a bill will shortly be put before the Chamber of Deputies to "raise the status of the High Committee for Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms by giving the provisions governing it legislative rank and endowing it, as a national human rights institution, with administrative and financial autonomy; the Committee's membership will also be adjusted with a view to strengthening communication between the State and civil society and consolidating its powers so as to reinforce its role in the promotion and protection of human rights".	Para. 25, Page 10, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
35.	<input type="checkbox"/>	He [the Minister of Justice and Human Rights of Tunisia]also informed the Working Group on new measures that have been adopted to enhance the process of human rights protection and promotion, and to consolidate cooperation with the United Nations and regional bodies:	Para. 6, Page 4, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21

		(...)Tunisia's decision to submit, in 2008, eight reports to United Nations bodies, of which seven to treaty bodies: (...) (c) [the] consolidation of the Higher Committee on Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, in line with the Paris Principles, by giving it legislative status , reinforcing its administrative and financial autonomy, expanding its prerogatives (self-referral, impromptu visits to prisons, individual appeals...) and developing its means of action to stand against all forms of human rights violations.
36.	<input type="checkbox"/>	A bill is currently under consideration, which will further strengthen the role of the Human Rights Committee, including the possibility by the chair of the Human Rights Committee to visit prisons and engage in developing programmes to take stock of the human rights situation. E. Freedom of expression, opinion, assembly and association:

37.	<input type="checkbox"/>	As part of its follow-up to recommendations made by the Human Rights Committee (CCPR/C/79/Add.43, para. 18-20), Tunisia has taken steps to strengthen freedom of opinion and expression by introducing various procedures and measures, including amendments to the Press Code aimed at consolidating public freedoms . In this respect, under Act No. 2006-1 of 9 January 2006 amending the Press Code (art. 3, final para.), "Daily newspapers, periodicals and magazines shall no longer be subject to any statutory deposit".	Para. 35, Page 12, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
38.	<input type="checkbox"/>	On the question put by the United Kingdom, Denmark, Canada, and Sweden on freedom of expression and opinion, including measures to eliminate restrictions to establish political parties and civil organization, the Minister recalled that there are nine political parties in Tunisia, six of which are represented in the Chamber of Deputies, participate in its legislative work and play a role of parliamentary control . The Minister further noted that some parties were not recognized simply because they have yet to be registered.	Para. 8, Page 5, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21
39.	<input type="checkbox"/>	With regard to the follow-up on previous recommendations concerning the freedom of expression and opinion made by the Human Rights Committee, the Minister announced that the Press Code has been amended to ensure a greater liberty and greater freedom. In particular, some of the requirements and need for review have been withdrawn, allowing newspapers to publish without legal registration. The Minister also highlighted the high number of newspapers currently circulating in the country, which demonstrates to what extent freedom of expression, is applied in Tunisia.	Para. 9, Page 6, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21
40.	<input type="checkbox"/>	With regard to the rights of association , the Minister stressed that association is not submitted to an authorization regime and some 10,000 associations	Para. 34, Page 10, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21

41.	<input type="checkbox"/>	With regard to freedom of expression, the Minister noted that certain Internet sites have been closed down in accordance with article 19 of ICCPR. While recalling the principle of freedom of expression, the Minister stressed that the sites that have been closed were advocating terrorism and inciting to behead innocent people.	Para. 34, Page 10, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21
42.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Minister added that it had made an important amendment on 4 May 2008 to its press law by abolishing the punishment of imprisonment of journalists and abolishing censorship on publications. F. Independence of media:

		Affirmation(s)	Source
44.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Minister [of Justice and Human Rights] welcomed the interest shown for the Tunisian process toward freedom of press and free access to sources of information and mentioned the progress made. He indicated that the press code was amended four times to further promote and liberalize press activities and the removal of imprisonment penalties from the press code. The Minister also mentioned two types of reforms, the reform of prison penalties and the abolition of legal submission of copies press. He also indicated that besides legal guarantees, there are a number of important developments on the ground, for example, there is not one single journalist in jail and for the past 20 years this has been the case. He also stressed that Tunisian media organizations elect their own leaders and that recently, the Tunisian Association of Journalists elected a syndicate. The Tunisian Government does not try to influence the media, and the independence of the media is noted by journalists themselves. The Minister emphasized that the Government respects the independence of the media and does not try to influence or intimidate the media.	Para. 35, Page 11, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21
45.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Minister also noted that 90 per cent of the media is private and freely available. Opposition parties participate readily in public television and material support is provided by the Government with no strings attached, and one cursory look shows the variety of media outlet. He also noted that there is no longer	Para. 36, Page 11, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21

48.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Tunisian authorities strive to reinforce the partnership with the NGO community and especially those working in the field of human rights.	Para. 29, Page 10, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
49.	<input type="checkbox"/>	With regard to cooperation with international NGOs, by providing such NGOs with an appropriate legal framework, Tunisia tries to establish regular partnerships in order to develop lasting cooperation. [...] Tunisia remains open to dialogue with all NGOs working in the area of human rights.	Para. 31, Page 11, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
50.	<input type="checkbox"/>	Tunisia receives with interest and notes all the concerns voiced by the actors involved in the national dialogue who are dedicated to giving further impetus to its progress in developing the rule of law, the establishment of the democratic ideal and the participation of all citizens, including young people, and policy definition and implementation, within the framework of a development model that enables society to gradually take responsibility for itself.	Para. 75, Page 23, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
51.	<input type="checkbox"/>	The Minister said that, at the domestic level, Tunisia would pursue and strengthen its positive collaboration with civil society, which must play a role in the promotion of human rights. Act No. 2007-32 of 22 March 2007 supplementing certain provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which obliges judicial police officers, at hearings pursuant to letters rogatory, to inform suspects "of their right to be assisted by counsel of their choice, and to note this in the police report", and establishing the right to prior transmission to the lawyer of the record of proceedings.
54.	<input type="checkbox"/>	In this regard, it should be recalled that the independence of the judiciary is guaranteed by article 65 of the Constitution which explicitly states that "the judicial authority is independent. In exercising their functions, judges are subject only to the authority of the law" . The independence of the judiciary is further guaranteed under the Act governing the membership of the High Council of the Judiciary. It is likewise safeguarded by the Council's power not merely to give opinions but to take enforceable decisions concerning appointment, promotion, transfer and discipline.	Para. 37, Page 13, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1
55.	<input type="checkbox"/>	It should be recalled, moreover, that in order to strengthen the independence of the judiciary, the above-mentioned Organization Act of 4 August 2005 modified the composition of the High Council of the Judiciary, increasing the number of members elected by the various levels of judges. The Act, in its (new) article 60, also strengthened disciplinary guarantees by providing for appeals against disciplinary decisions.	Para. 38, Page 13, Tunisian National report, A/HRC/WG.6/1/TUN/1

Domestic proceedings against law-enforcement officers who are guilty of such offences are speedy and effective.
63.	<input type="checkbox"/>	With regard to the question by Germany on the prohibition of torture, the Minister stressed the fact that Tunisian law expressly prohibits any acts of torture or other cruel and inhuman treatments and punishes anyone involved in such acts. He further stated that law enforcement agents have been sentenced to prison terms if convicted for involvement in acts of torture. The Minister also indicated that redress has been made available to people who demonstrated that they have been victims of torture. In addition, he stated that such efforts are always made to ensure that law enforcement agents who commit acts of torture are brought to justice.	Para. 9, Page 6, Working Group report, A/HRC/8/21
